

Melody Of June

Day by day, week by week, and year by year
Many word that I have heard
But, there is one words that I always remember
The words you put together into sentences
Makes me happy and blessed

Anyway, can you always say that sentences
To me? Day by day, week by week, and year by year
Can you always here to say that?
Can you rising me up again and again?

I need to hear that word
When you say that I'am is your everything
Nothing feel better in the word
Except when you say that word, Mom

Thankyou, for being my melody of June
When June feels heavier than other month
Thanks, to stay here and always trust me, Mom
As long you are here, I will be fine
My world, everything and anything will be fine.
