

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGGESTION

In this section, The Researcher is hoping to give a conclusion and recommendations to the other researchers in this part to address all of the metaphor types. Furthermore, the author wishes to make some suggestions to the readers in order for them to employ metaphor concepts in their own study.

5.1 Conclusion

Based on the findings and discussions in chapter iv, the conclusion drawn from this study after completing the metaphor analysis concerns the problem of accomplishing this thesis. This study results was discovered by the author in several of Brothers Grimm's short stories, and each metaphor. Through those short stories the researcher can be analyzing the data of this thesis and also finding types of metaphor. The author found numerous types of metaphors by using Ullman's theory (1962) to the short stories. In this research, the writer shows each metaphor in the Grimm Brothers' short stories. And also the writer using Beekman and Callow's theory to study the significance of each metaphor expression discovered in the short stories.

The writer wishes for the readers to comprehend the metaphor concept or type of metaphor, especially in short stories such as this thesis, and to be more interested in learning since so many journals and research papers do not study the metaphor in short stories. Furthermore, The author assumes that the findings of this study will be valuable to other researchers.

In addition, The writer discovered no prevailing type in the short stories. Since this short story is a literature for children, in this short stories children are introduced with the use of various languages and the writer may infer in the short stories some of the metaphor did not using a clear images since the short story is read by children from grades 3 to 7 or ages 8 to12. As a result, The Writer hopes that The Reader will have similar expectations after reading this study. Also, in this chapter the author want to provide information to the readers, particularly concerning metaphor in this study. So many studies have been conducted on metaphor. However, the writer focuses on evaluating the types of metaphor and the meaning of metapahor used in the short story in this research. the other researchers are choosing one or more than types of metaphor like this one above.

5.2 Suggestion

Finally, the writer will conclude this chapter. The writer carried out the study by using figurative language, specifically metaphor from the Grimm Brothers' short stories. In this section, The Researcher attempts to provide suggestions and advice that are expected to increase the readers' understanding. The writer also believes that this study may encourage other researchers to study similar theories. Since many references can be discovered in many sources to help in thoroughly analyzing metaphor or types of metaphor, and it also makes a thesis on metaphor.
