

CHAPTER V

Conclusion and Suggestions

This chapter contains the conclusion and suggestion about the research which already been done by the writer, and based the result in previous chapter. In this chapter the writer also give suggestion for the next researcher who wants to research same topics and field in pragmatics.

5.1 Conclusion

According to research that already completed, the writer found five classification of directives speech which are speech act of requesting, speech act of commanding, speech act of asking, speech act of suggestion, and speech act of forbidding, all of these types are used by the characters in the source of data. For instance, the various words used by parents to ask or to forbid a child. This reflects the words used depend on to whom the speaker speaks. It will be different if the character speaks to a child and an adult. So, for further research, these directive speech acts can be studied in other movies in various contexts to find various types of directive speech acts and their functions the reflect politeness principles in ordering, forbidding, and in request. Furthermore, as the result of the data it can be concluded that speech act of requesting and commanding are the most used in this source of the data as the writer analyze the data, the speech act of forbidding rarely used in the source of the data.

To find the strategy that used by the character in the source of the data the writer re read the data carefully, and found there are some strategies in the source of the data, such as, indirect literal speech act, direct no-literal speech act, indirect no-literal speech act, and the writer found that this strategy being used by the characters in the source of the data.

5.2 Suggestion

From the findings at previous chapter that the writer also found some of suggestion for the next researcher which want to do same research at same field especially at speech act of directive or in speech act field. It is better for the next researcher to be acknowledge the theory about speech act because there are many types each speech act such as speech act of directive there are five types of this speech act, which each of the type have different ways to be analyze and have different meaning, the writer also suggests that the next writer to choosing the source of the data that relevant to the theory which contain the speech act of directive which will help the next researcher in obtaining the data.
