CHAPTER I
INTRODUCTION

In this chapter, the researcher discusses the background of the problem, the identification of the problem, the limitation of the problem, the formulation of the problem, research questions, the purposes of the research, the significance of the research, the definition of the key terms.

1.1 The Background of The Problem

TOEFL (Test of English as Foreign Language) is an international formal test to measure English ability of foreign learner. The TOEFL test examines three elements, namely listening comprehension, structure and written expression, and reading comprehension. studies on TOEFL in general focused on one skill. The study on TOEFL has been conducted by many researchers, including one from Indonesia. Some of students from English Department also have done the research about TOEFL. A research done by Sundari (2018) and Hasnaini (2018) have been investigating about aspect listening. Then Fitria (2018), Saraswati (2018), and Febrian (2018) have investigated about aspect reading.

Sundari (2018) has investigated The Second Year Students’ Difficulties in Listening To Short Conversation of TOEFL-Like at The English Department of Bung Hatta University. The results of her research showed that the students had low difficulty in listening to short conversation. Hasnaini (2018) has investigated students’ difficulties in listening to long conversation of TOEFL-Like at English Department of Bung Hatta University. 1.2 The Identification of The Problem

In TOEFL, there are 3 sections of test i.e: listening comprehension, structure and written expression test, and reading comprehension. Based on the interviewed, on March 8th 2019, toward the third year students at English Department of Bung Hatta University, the students have had difficulty to reach the good score in TOEFL. They told in part of listening comprehension, they got difficulty in listening to the narrator utterance because the narrator was not clear to hear and the topic of listening was more scientific for them such as talk about some aspect of school life or topics currently in the news. Moreover, because the narrators are native, it made them confused with their pronunciation.

For reading comprehension, some students told the test was easy to do, but they did not have enough time to finish it. Furthermore, reading comprehension also has long text for them to read, so it is difficult for them to manage such limited time to read efficiently.

Some students precisely told that section structure and written expression or grammar skill is one part of TOEFL that has difficulty. The students admitted, they only had a little knowledge of tense and vocabulary at that time because they had the TOEFL test at second semester. Also, they are trapped to answer the correct answer of the multiple choice parts, because in this part, the option looked similar each other and it made student trapped in such tricky option.

Moreover, such problem is proven by the result of their score who had TOEFL test in UPT-PPBA, and the average of their score especially in structure section are still low.
